

Address of the energy storage building

Overview

What is inter-office energy storage?

An inter-office energy storage project in collaboration with the Department of Energy's Vehicle Technologies Office, Building Technologies Office, and Solar Energy Technologies Office to provide foundational science enabling cost-effective pathways for optimized design and operation of hybrid thermal and electrochemical energy storage systems.

Who owns East River energy storage system?

East River ESS, LLC, an affiliate of 174 Power Global, will build the East River Energy Storage System on land leased from New York Power Authority (NYPA), where the Charles Poletti power plant was formerly located.

Can thermal energy storage be used in buildings?

Through industry partnerships, NREL researchers address technical barriers to deployment and widespread adoption of thermal energy storage in buildings. In the United States, buildings consume approximately 39% of all primary energy and 74% of all electricity.

Can thermal energy storage be a building decarbonization resource?

NREL is significantly advancing the viability of thermal energy storage (TES) as a building decarbonization resource for a highly renewable energy future. Through industry partnerships, NREL researchers address technical barriers to deployment and widespread adoption of thermal energy storage in buildings.

Are battery energy storage systems regulated in New York City?

Battery energy storage systems in New York City are rigorously regulated, with oversight from the safety industry, federal, state, and local authorities. All code, location, spacing, and other local requirements must be met.
