

Casio protrek solar battery

Overview

Are Casio Protrek watches solar powered?

Casio Protrek watches are generally solar powered. However, they all come equipped with one single battery to power the watch should the solar power fail. In general, these batteries do not have to be replaced. Casio guarantees them to last as long as the watch itself does. There are times, however, when the battery does fail.

Do Casio Pro Treks have a solar-powered battery?

Yes, Casio Pro Treks have a solar-powered battery called Tough Solar. This feature uses UV rays to extend the watch battery's life. Outdoor watches have a lot of power-draining functions and a solar-powered battery keeps those systems running. Casio Pro Treks have this capability.

Do Casio pro Trek watches drain the battery?

Casio Pro Trek watches have several features like the altimeter, barometer, compass, lighting, daily alarms, and various measurement functions that can drain the battery. However, Casio Pro Trek tough solar watches will power through and keep your watch fully functioning at all times.

How much does a Casio ProTrek watch cost?

Prices for Casio Pro Trek watches range from $150 to over $550 for models with more features. Casio Pro Treks are known for providing the best features for outdoor use and are worth every penny.

Are all Protrek batteries different?
