Scheduled for completion in Q3 2025, this 800MWh lithium-ion facility will store enough energy to power 350,000 homes during evening peaks. What makes it special?

It's paired with existing solar farms through an AI-driven energy management platform that predicts consumption patterns.

With rolling blackouts costing the Free State province over R12 billion annually [1], the city's 2025 storage projects could finally turn the tide. But why focus on energy storage rather than just building more solar farms?

Well, here's the kicker: sunlight doesn't match peak demand hours. Without.

With rolling blackouts costing the country $25 million daily [4], this "City of Roses" is blooming into a renewable energy powerhouse through cutting-edge storage solutions. While politicians debate in courtrooms, engineers are rewriting Bloemfontein's energy script: Teraco's data centers now pair.

As South Africa's judicial capital races toward its renewable energy goals, the energy storage ratio – the percentage of generated renewable energy effectively stored – has become the talk of the town (and boardrooms from Pretoria to Cape Town). Bloemfontein isn't just famous for roses anymore.
